

Call for Applications

to encourage social entrepreneurship
for Bar-Ilan students

Do you have a passion for action?

Bar-Ilan University, in collaboration with the Jane Stern Lebell Foundation for Social Entrepreneurship, is accepting proposals for student-led initiatives that present innovative solutions to real-world social problems. If you have an innovative idea, a desire to create real social change and receive tools for the success of your project – this is your opportunity!

Project funding: Up to 150,000 NIS

The final funding amount will be determined by the committee.

Project areas:

Projects that offer radical and creative solutions to current social problems and challenges in Israeli society.

The projects can be for students on campus and/or for society at large.

Submission criteria:

- Students and graduates of all degrees -up to one year after graduation
- Originality and innovation
- Potential for impact on the target audience
- Chance of success for the realization of the project
- Commitment to the project and willingness to work as a team

To apply, click on the link to upload:

- A 2-3 minute video presenting the project
- A detailed budget estimate

Deadline for submission: 06.04.25